We are an island in a sea of continents. We have traveled from continent to continent and have settled here for an indefinite period of time. Soon we will move on — for we are transit. While we are here we are unique.

It Is An Honor To Present

In an age when "service" and "reliability" are slowly becoming words of the past, there are still those unique individuals who emerge to strengthen our school. Through their eagerness and involvement they have built an image that will remain with some of us for the rest of our lives. Very seldom do we thank these people for their time, energy, and endless support. We only hope that they will somehow understand how much they mean to us.

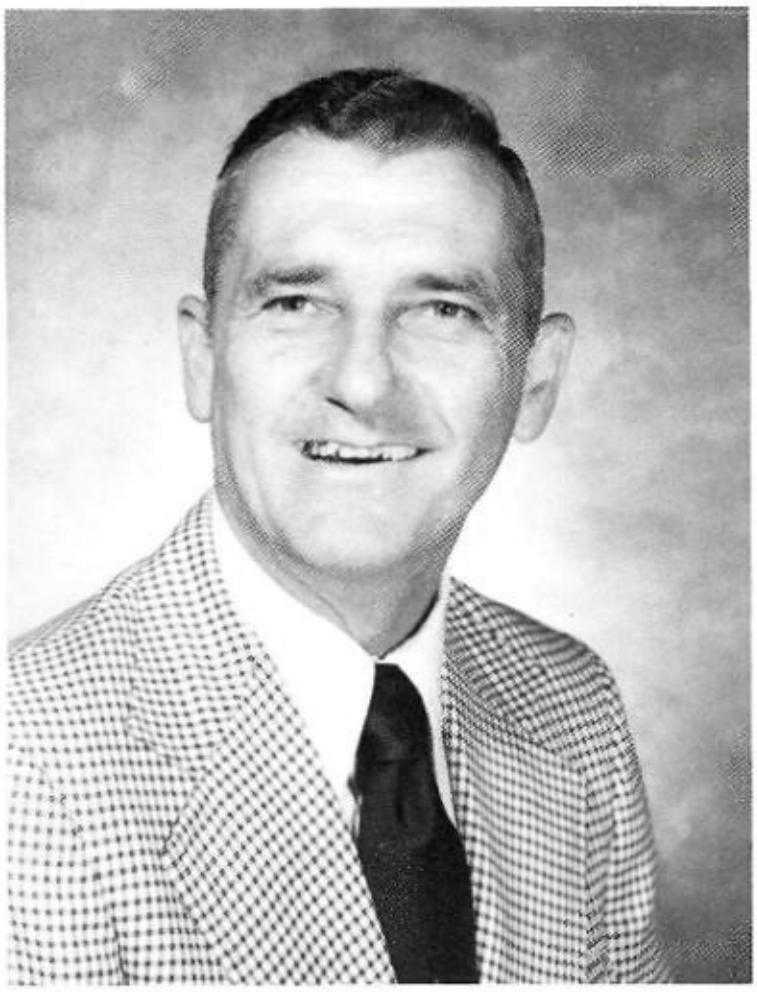
People Who Formulate School Policy



MR. HOMER M. BRYANT
Superintendent

Mr. Bryant, our superintendent since 1955, has served the school in various ways. His many duties involve such areas as personnel, finance, public relations, and public services. He has always enjoyed the wide variety of work as his life-time interest has been business.

He is one of the few individuals who has watched and participated in the expansion of the school system. Since he first became superintendent he has seen many changes--the student-life aspect has been extended from the extra-curricular activities to policies concerning the dress code and hair regulations. Today the opportunity for student involvement within the school system has opened up.

Mr. Bryant especially enjoys a small school system like our because he is able to know what is going on from everyone's point of view. He loves the position he holds and hopes he is doing some good for everyone involved in the school system.

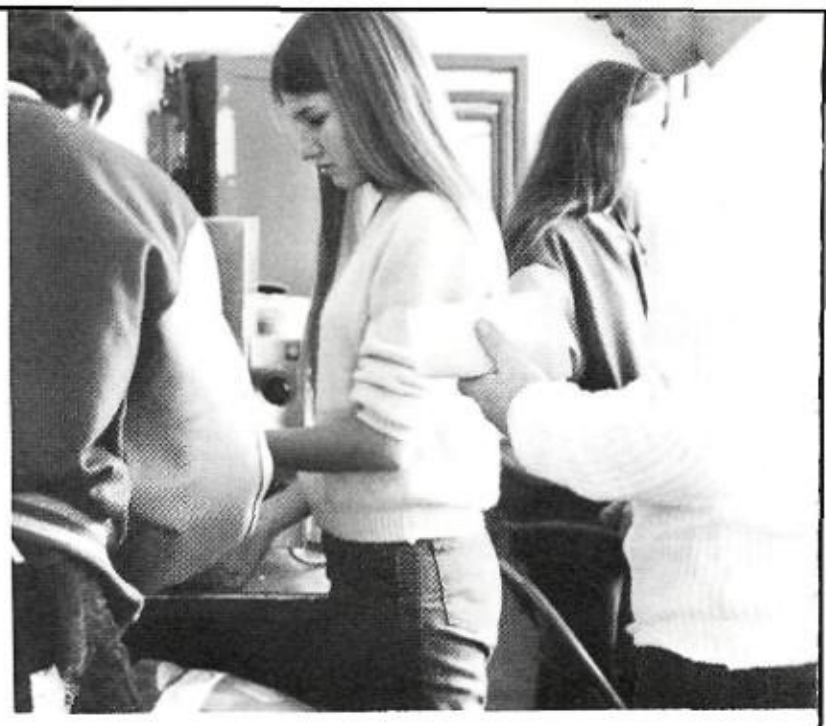
Concessions



Every Saturday morning, September through November, the QHS Seniors sold coffee and doughnuts at the Youth League football games. Some always had trouble getting up early enough to make it by 7:00, but all worked diligently to make money for the Senior Trip. Some memorable moments were: Cindy's attack on a referee with the mustard bottle, Jon Zander continously hovering over the cash box, and Ernie's undeclared war on bumble bees.

Another Senior class fund-raising project was the Senior Bazaar, held on November 16 & 17. A lot of hard work and long hours went into the items sold, and it seemed to pay off. The Bazaar was a success. The workshops took place in the school cafeteria at night under the direction of several much-appreciated, self-sacrificing parents.

Voice of the Students

SCA OFFICERS: Treasurer Mary Hogan, Vice-President Cindy Limbach, President Mark Willis, Parlemantarian Liz Scott, Secretary Teresa Hatmaker.

Sponsoring drives, dances, contests, and spirit-raising constitutional and legislative action made the SCA emerge as an outstanding instrument through which students could voice their opinions. The Student Council debated any number of issues on every Wednesday afternoon in room 214.

The winter of '74 found members revising the hair-length proposal and compiling a list of new and traditional projects. The drafted plans for the Spring Carnival, the Battle of the Sexes, and the People Auction reveled the interests of the student body.

The project with the most far-reaching effect was the detailed planning of the Spring Carnival. Sponsored by the SCA but handled through organizations and members of the community, this project uncovered unity, individual dedication and a new awareness of the Student Council.

In addition to sponsoring annual projects and establishing new traditions such as the Parade prior to the Homecoming game, the SCA also backed welfare projects like raising money for the Choctaw Indians and collecting canned goods for needy families.

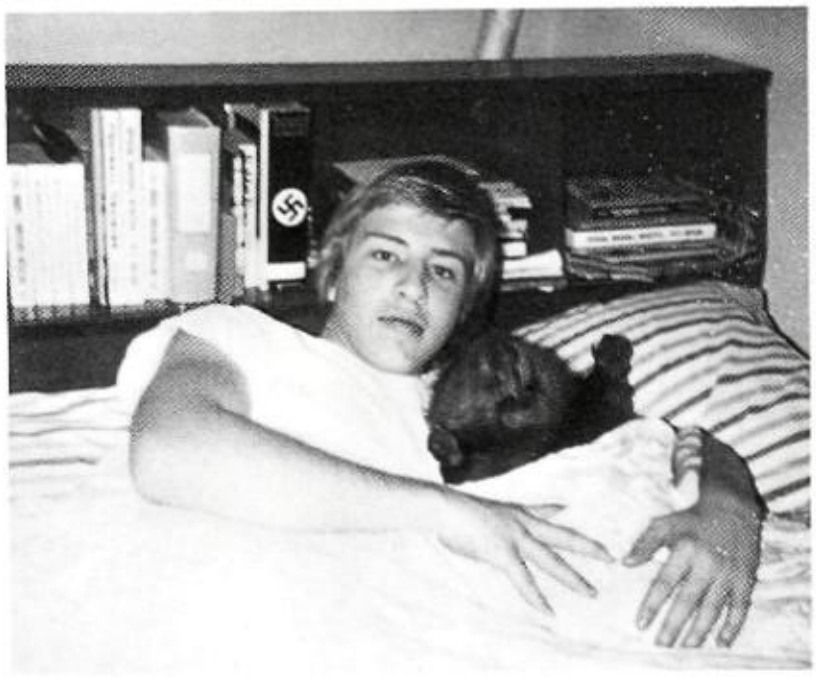
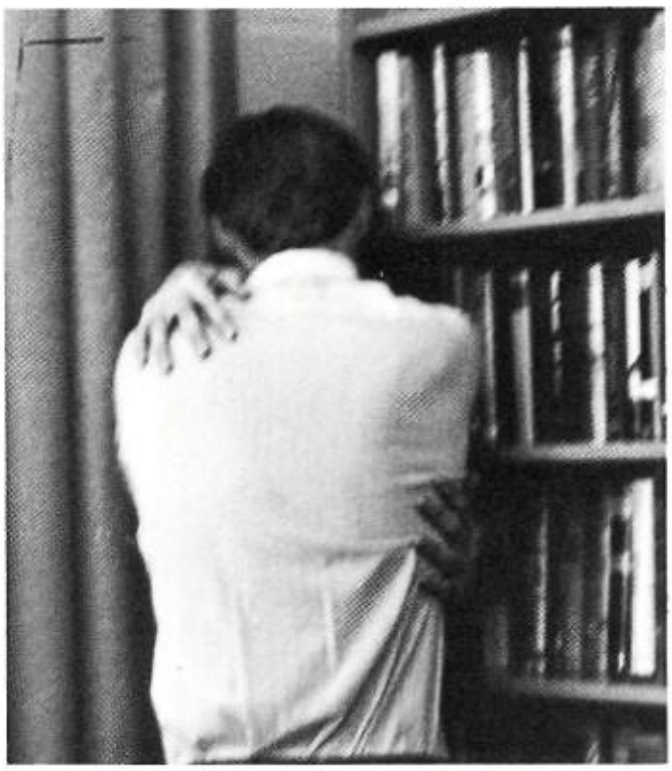
Do You Remember?

Do you remember Friday nights at the Roller Rink? spending all your money at the 7-11? the Turkey Bowl? when the '76 on the watertower became a '75 and then a '78? the Wonderful World of Disney and Underground Atlanta? two all beef patties, special sauce, lettuce, cheese, pickles, onions, on a sesame seed bun? when it snowed and we got out of school for two days? riding to school in a "cattle car"? buying a carnation for your Valentine? the Battle of the Sexes when the girls won?



Do you remember Jimmy and his "Loveable" animals?



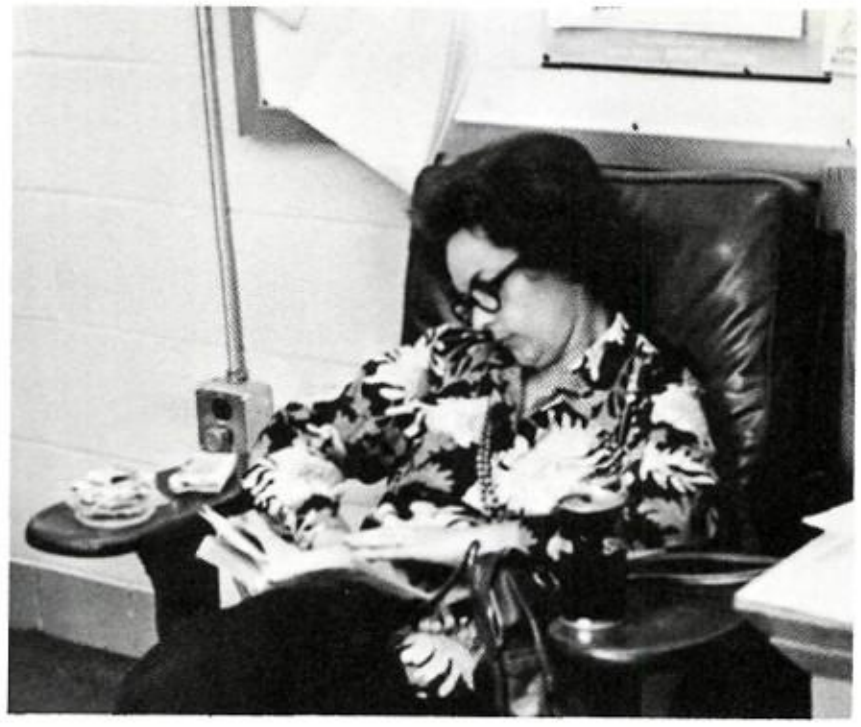
Do you remember when Tus was caught in the corner . . . alone?

Do you remember when we were transported back in time by our Elizabethan troubadours?

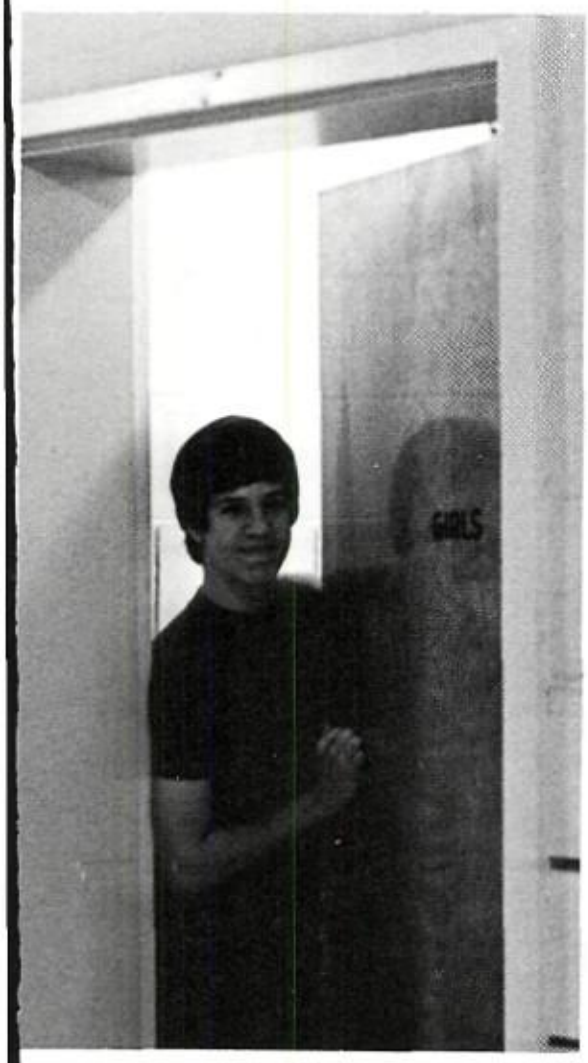
Do you remember what it was like in the locker room after a football game?

Do you remember when Broomhilda visited Biology on October 31?

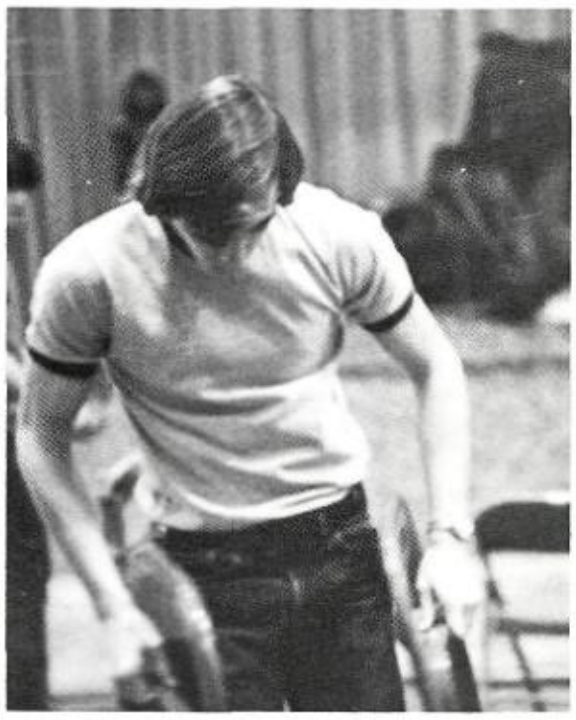
Do you remember our Christmas trip around the world?



Do you remember when Mrs. Mills was caught napping by the inscrutable eye of Mr. Livingston?

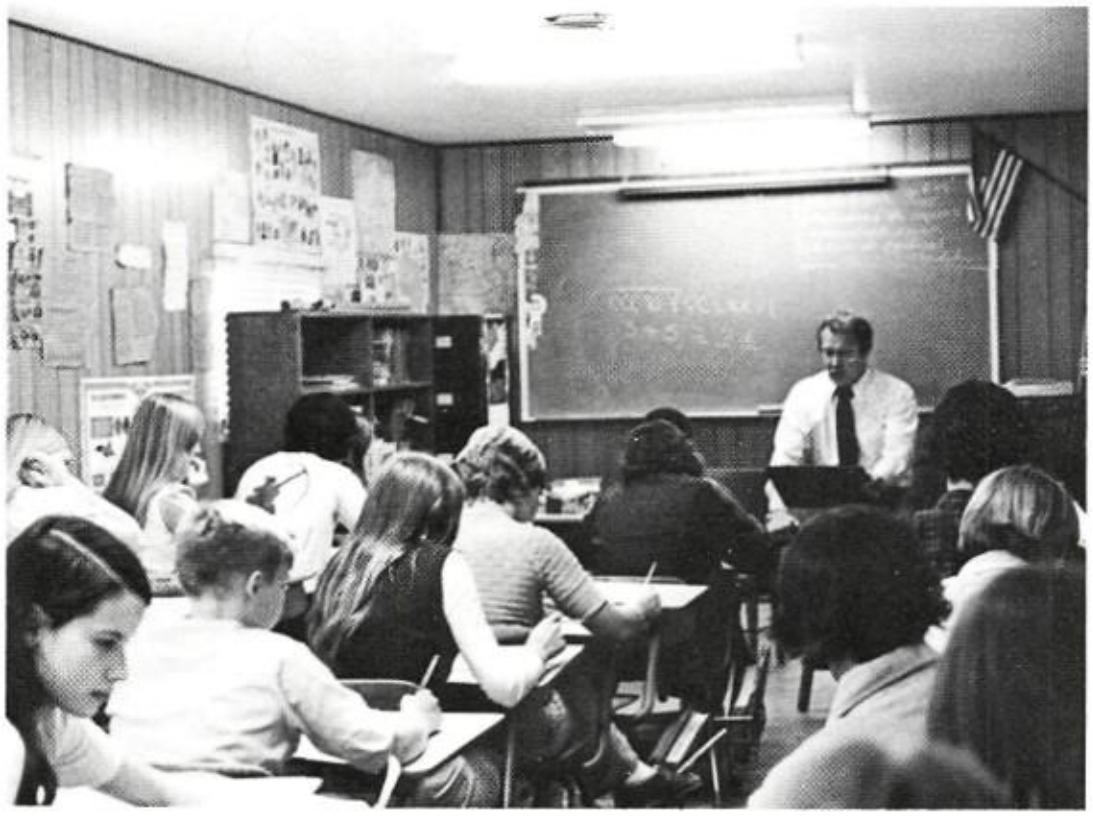


Do you remember Bob's walk on the wild side?



Do you remember having to set up chairs for assemblies?

Do you remember "Fred Astaire" Orr and "Ginger Rogers" Rahne dancing their way through Homecoming?



Do you remember what it was like to have a class in one of the trailors?

Do you remember these "Oldies But Goodies"? "Angie Baby", "Having My Baby", "Kung Fu Fighting", "Mr. Postman", "Fire", "Mandy", "I Honestly Love You", "Black Water", "Don't Rock The Boat", "The No-No Song", "Ride 'Em Cowboy", "Doctor's Orders", "The Night Chicago Died", "Steppin' Out (Gonna Boggie Tonight)", "Bungle In The Jungle", "Precious Moments", "Sweet Surrender" and "Hummingbird".

Do you remember when Charlie Reynolds danced with the Half-timers?

Do you remember our first Homecoming parade?

Do you remember Elton John, "The Exorcist:, Billy Jack, Olivia Newton John, Paul McCartney, "The Godfather, Part II", Helen Reddy, Neil Diamond, "The Towering Inferno", Tony Orlando and Dawn, James Bond, John Denver, Grand Funk, "The Longest Yard", The Carpenters, Chicago, Seals & Crofts . . . and Jack Benny.

Do you remember the first day of school when we met in our homerooms?

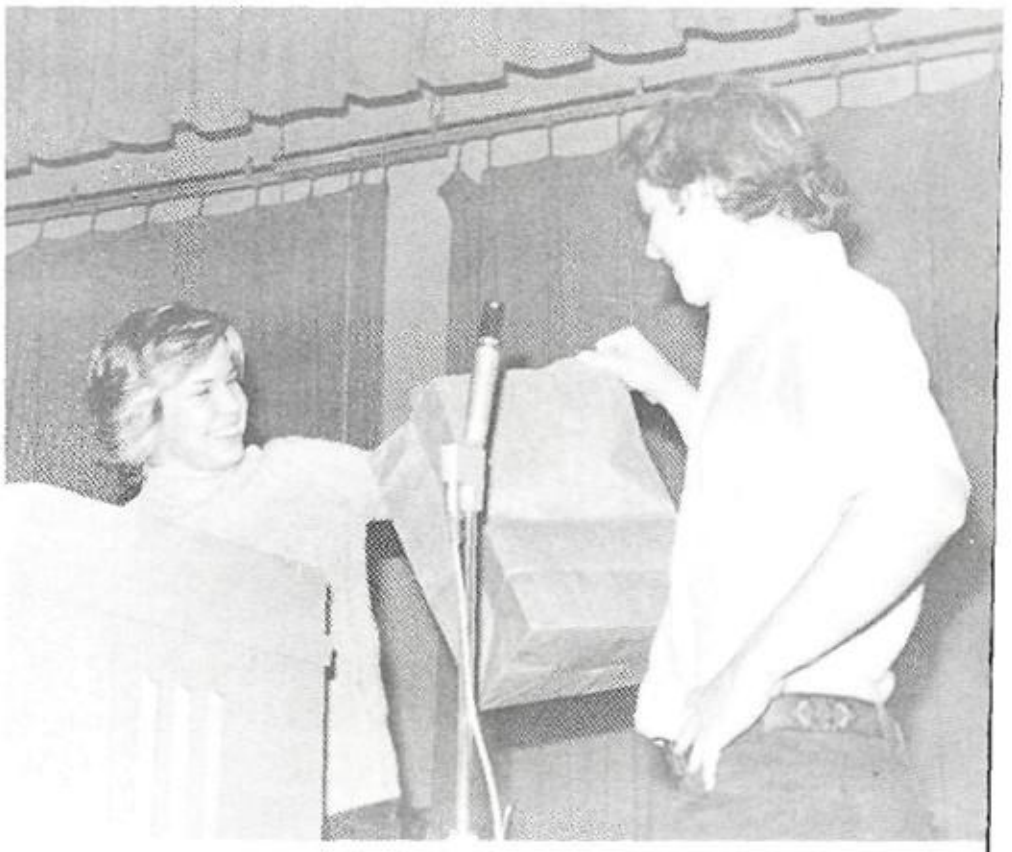
GROUPS OF SLAVES AND THEIR MASTERS

Who among us could pass up a chance to win a slave for a day? Not many. There were about 600 ticket sold for the People Auction. We all enjoyed seeing slaves to the menial jobs on their masters' orders. Some slaves were even "branded" with signs, trashcans, and --of all things-- a diaper!



Scott Kalm looks on as Heather Furstenberg pulls his winning ticket out of the bag. Lucky girl!!

Sophomore Don Mabry was the proud owner of Senior Kim Stueber. Kim knew she had to obey Don's orders when he showed up the next day with a bull whip hanging from his belt.

QHS Beauties Display Hidden Talents

Grace Cheatham, Donna Mabry, Bernice Nolf, Darla Boyd, Pauline Hartman, Booby Lake.

We all thought we knew them, but then---the REAL personalities came out! The new names, along with the newly uncovered personalities gave us great incites into what our long-time friends were really like. When the interviews and parade were over, we all rushed off to cast our money votes for our favorite beauty. Although they may be gone soon, we know that in years to come the names of Grace, Bernice, Darla, Pauline, Donna, and Booby will echo through the halls of QHS.

Grace could have won--but her balloons of hope let her down flat.

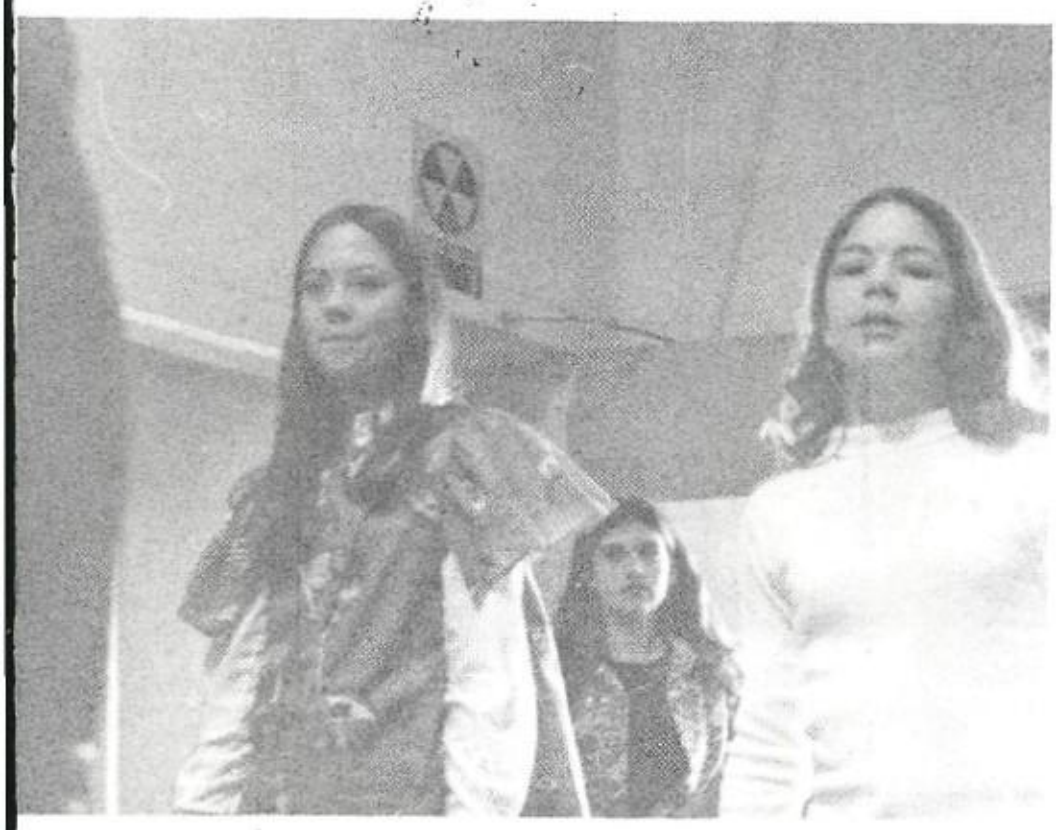
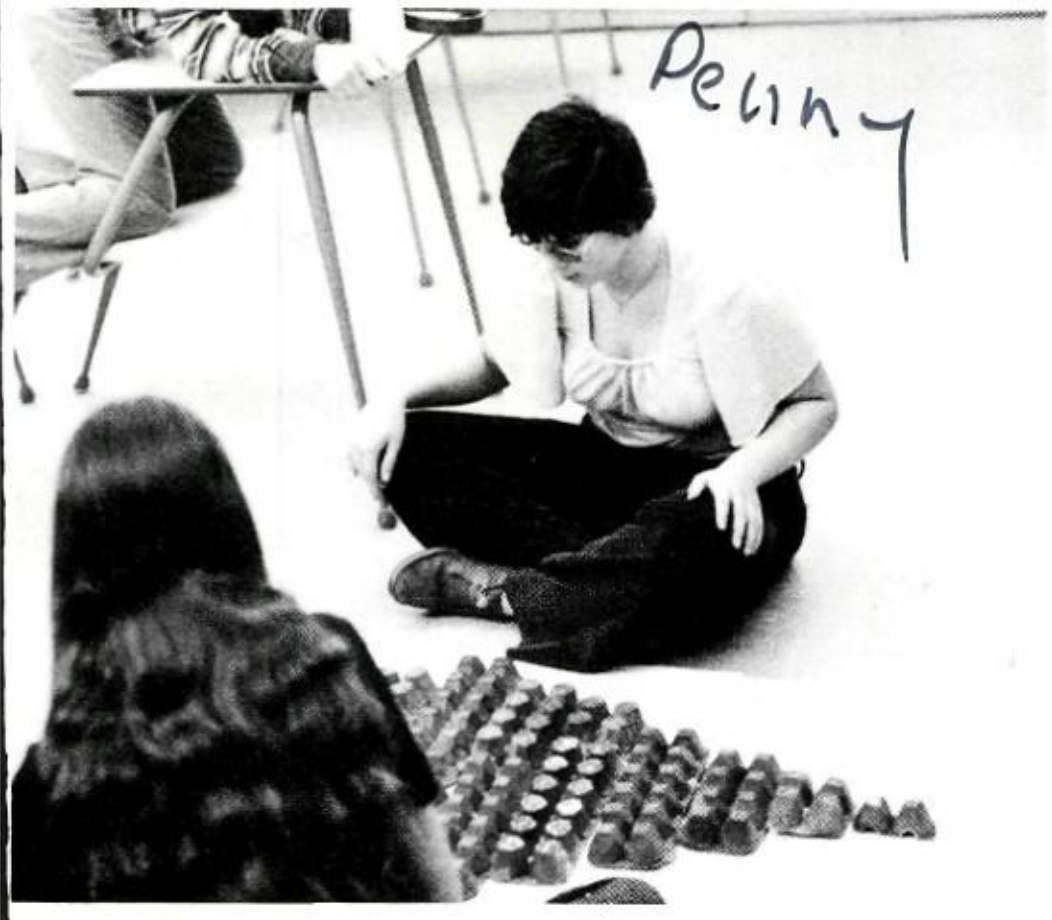
CPt. David Mize, a former student at QHS, was the guest speaker at the Fall induction ceremony.

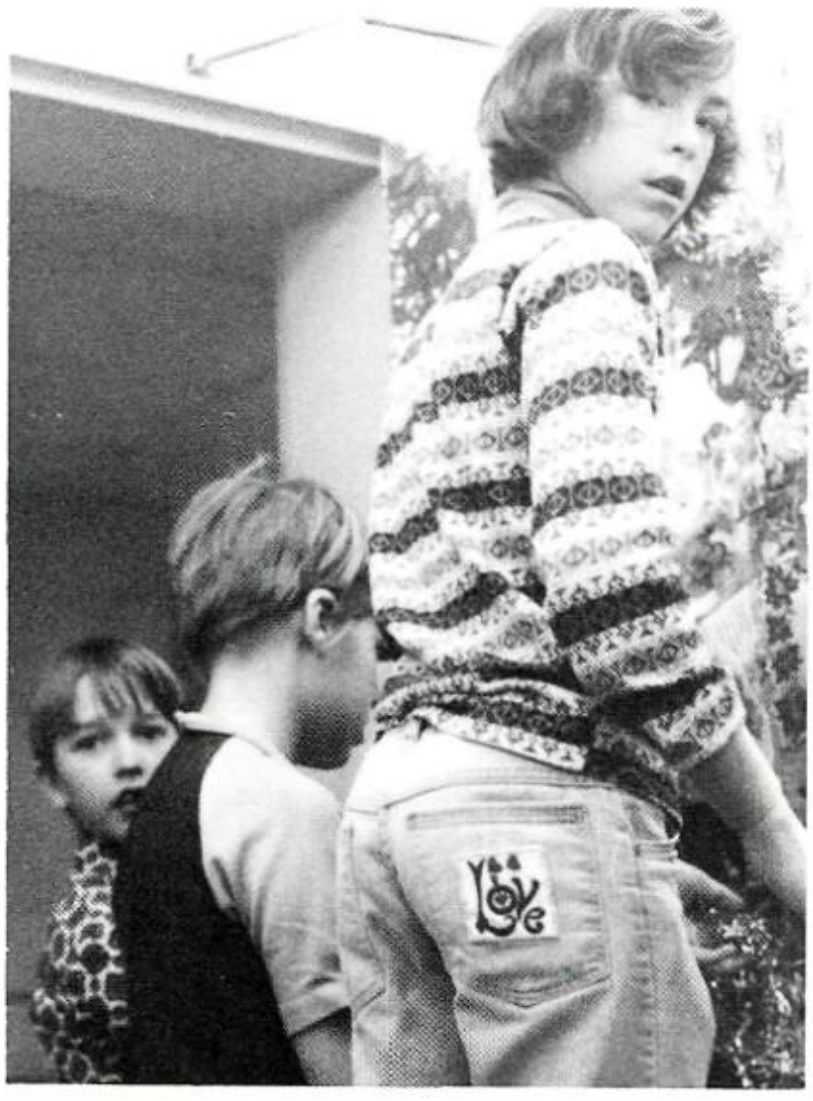


Gridiron moans and groans! Ernie told us it would be a hard game, and he was right! Even with the hours of strenous practice and sure-fire plays the teams were neck to neck throughout the entire game. As constant crys of encouragement and disappointment bellowed out from the team members, the crowd sat apathetically along the sidelines. Suddenly Terri Hatmaker scored a touchdown for the Seniors. At that moment the team spirit hit a new high, and we believed we had the game in our pockets. Then the Juniors went charging ahead with a 70-year touchdown by Sharon Boddy. The crowd, suddenly awakened by these new developments, rushed to the sidelines to cheer their chosen teams to victory. Although both teams fought vigorously for additional points, we were defeated by the clock. The next day we could see the results of the game as the members cautiously limped from class to class.

CHRISTMAS DOOR DECORATIONS? BAH! HUMBUG!



Although not all the doors were completely decorated for Christmas, the students who participated in the contest are to be congratulated for their time, effort, and creativity.



This year Mrs. Myrtle Richardson's homeroom was awarded the First Place Ribbon for the Christmas Door Decoration. Their display (in the making above) consisted of large amounts of egg cartons, glue, paint and ribbon. Many hours of patience and determination by every member of the homeroom helped create this winning entry. Mary Upchurch is credited with the idea of the decoration.

Academically Speaking

This year's "It's Academic" team won one of the two competitions against area schools. The team members, Senior Jon Zander, Senior Scott Nolf (Team Captain), and Sophomore David Shute, won $550 as a result of their victory. The money will be donated to the SCA and will be used for scholarships. The team alternates were Mickie Sullivan and John Davis.

During our first match, we defeated James Monroe High School of Fredericksburg and Western High School. The second match was lost to Edison and Washington-Lee teams.

The Rewards of Participation Proved Priceless

Sharon Boddy's determination and support proved vital to the team. Here she recieves recognition from the coach, Mrs. Frazier.

The Boy Who Cried "Wolf"

This fall unknown individuals phoned in false fire alarms to QHS and Russell Elementary at different time periods during the day. This caused firemen to leave the scene of a fire in Quantico town. At the "real" fire several persons were injured and one man lost his life.

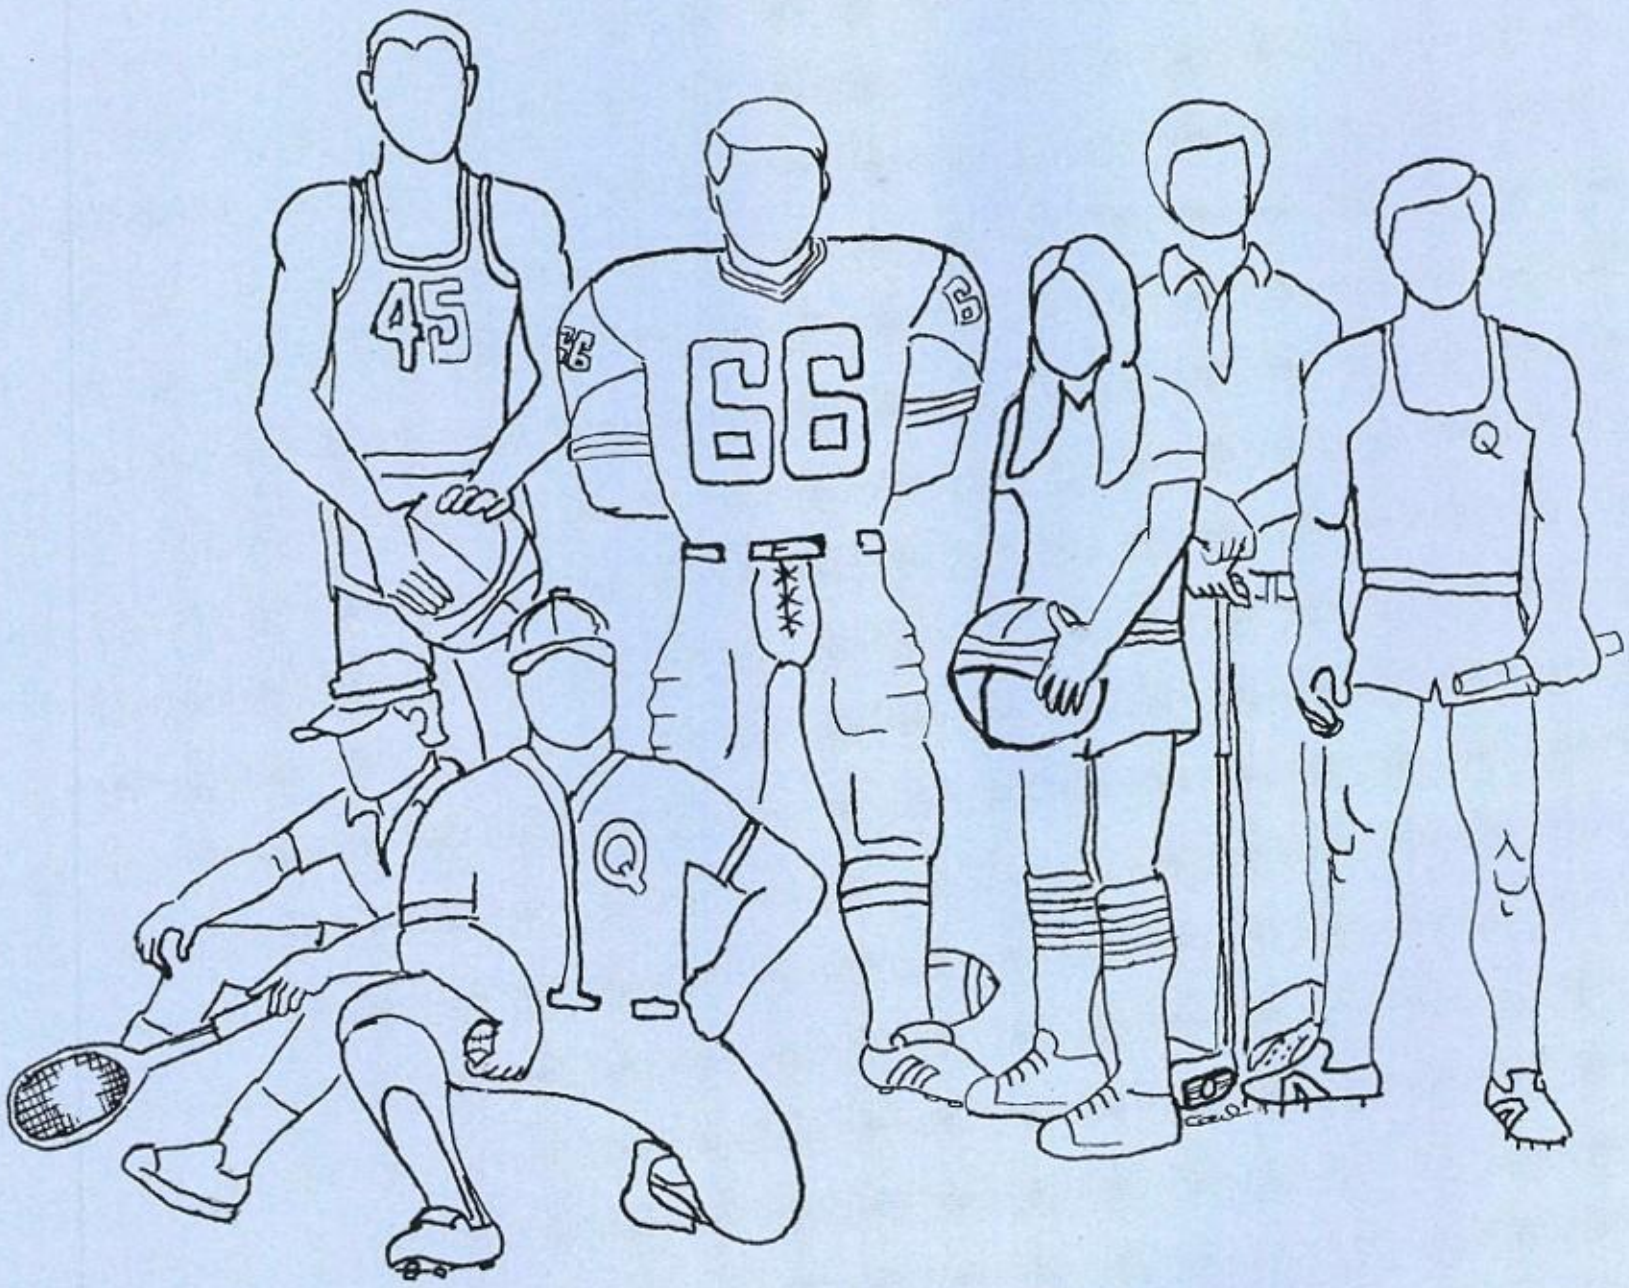
Field Day Activates QHS Students

QHS students were eager for Field Day to begin. The SCA sponsored such activities as the tricycle race, the softball throw, the sack race, and the apple relay.

Becky Hatch and Mickie Sullivan compete in the softball throw.

The apple relay was an event enjoyed by participants and viewers.



us and them

We are isolated — independent from state leagues or divisions. This independence eliminates us from all state tournaments, but does not stop us from reaching our goal. Our spirit, ability, and teamwork allow us to stand alone and win. We are victors who can never gain a title.

The following is an interview with five members of the 1974 football team: Steve Chace, Dwight Ellis, Chris and Danny Herman, and Scott Nolf.

What motivated you to out this year?

Dwight: It's fun and a good time.

Danny: The fun of winning.

Scott: You just look forward to the games.

Steve: The challenge.

What about a personal goal?

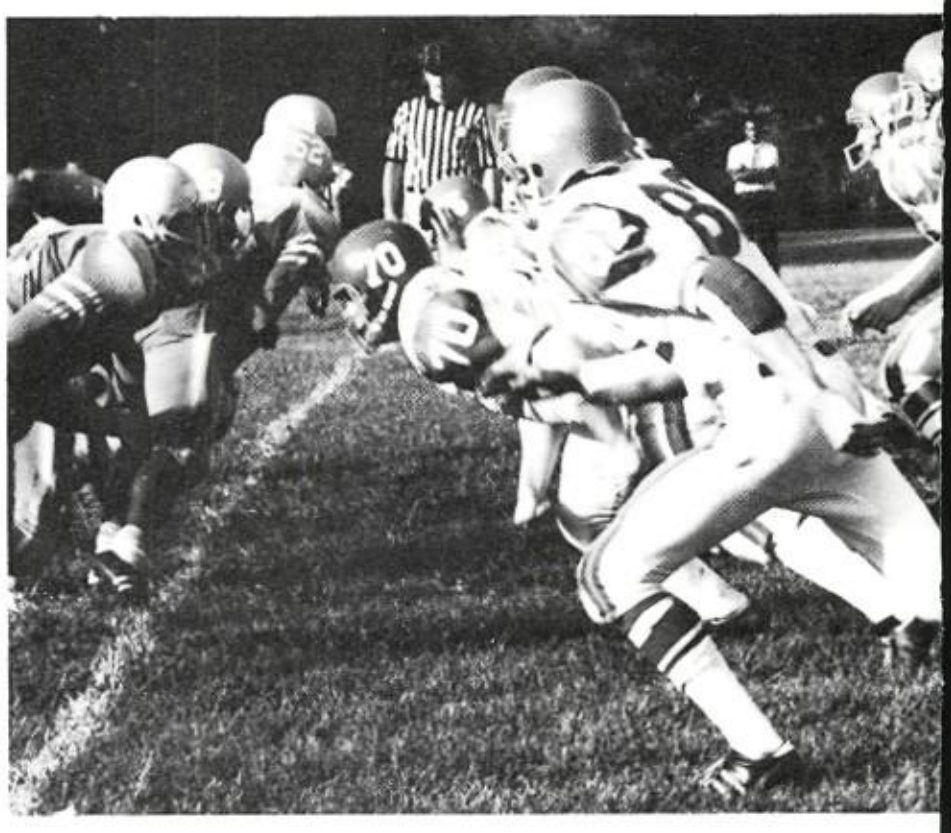
Steve: It's not as much personal as it is is the team . . . a team goal. Like this year, to be undefeated.

Dwight: But if a guy is real close to setting a record, the whole team will pitch in to help him.

What is the general feeling among all the players?

All: You can't explain it.

Danny: Everybody is really close.



I know a lot of people wonder what goes on at half-time in the locker room.

Dwight: At half-time you're all tired from the first half. Coach lets us go in and get a drink and rest until about the last four minutes. Then he comes down and goes over plays we messed up or something.

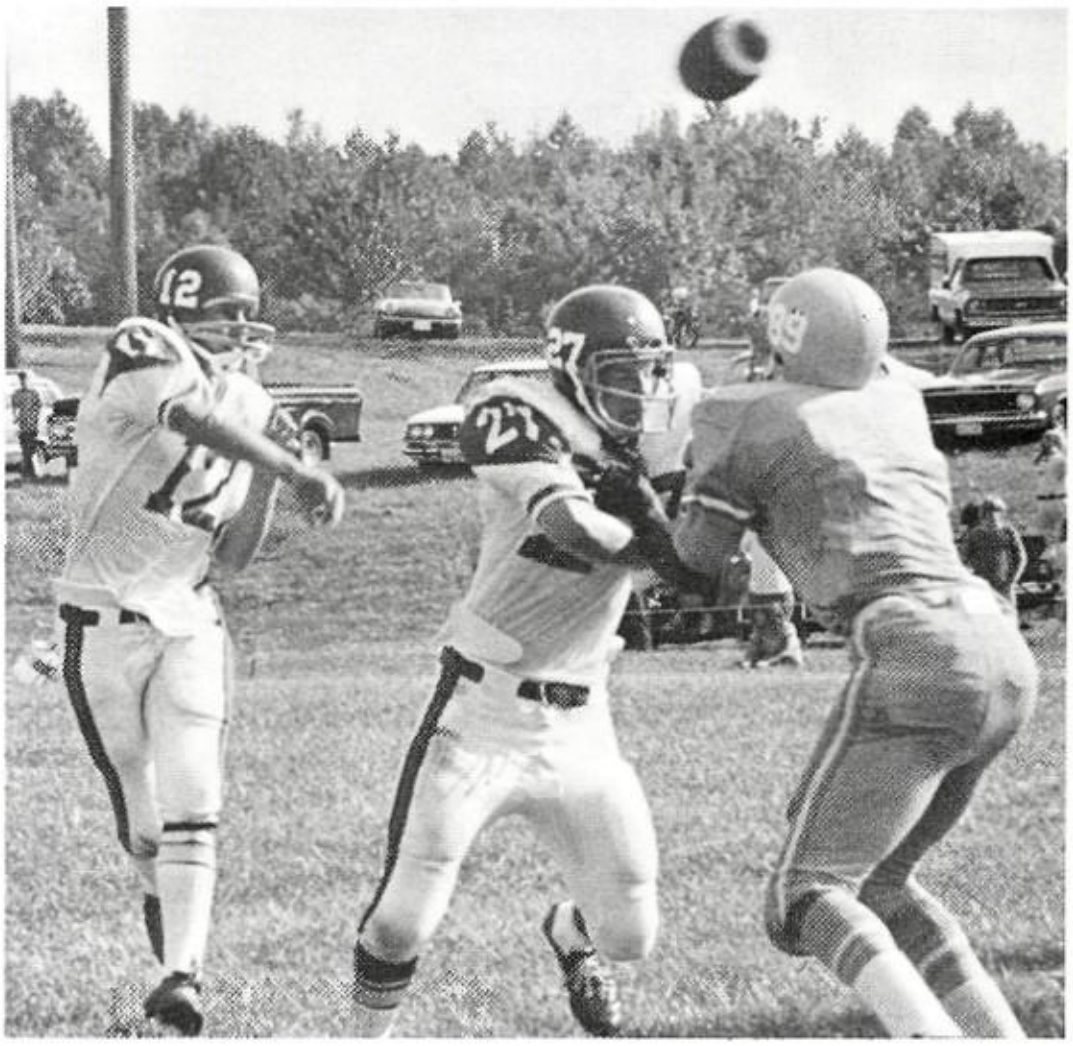
Do you think Coach Leonard is as hard on you as you are on yourselves?

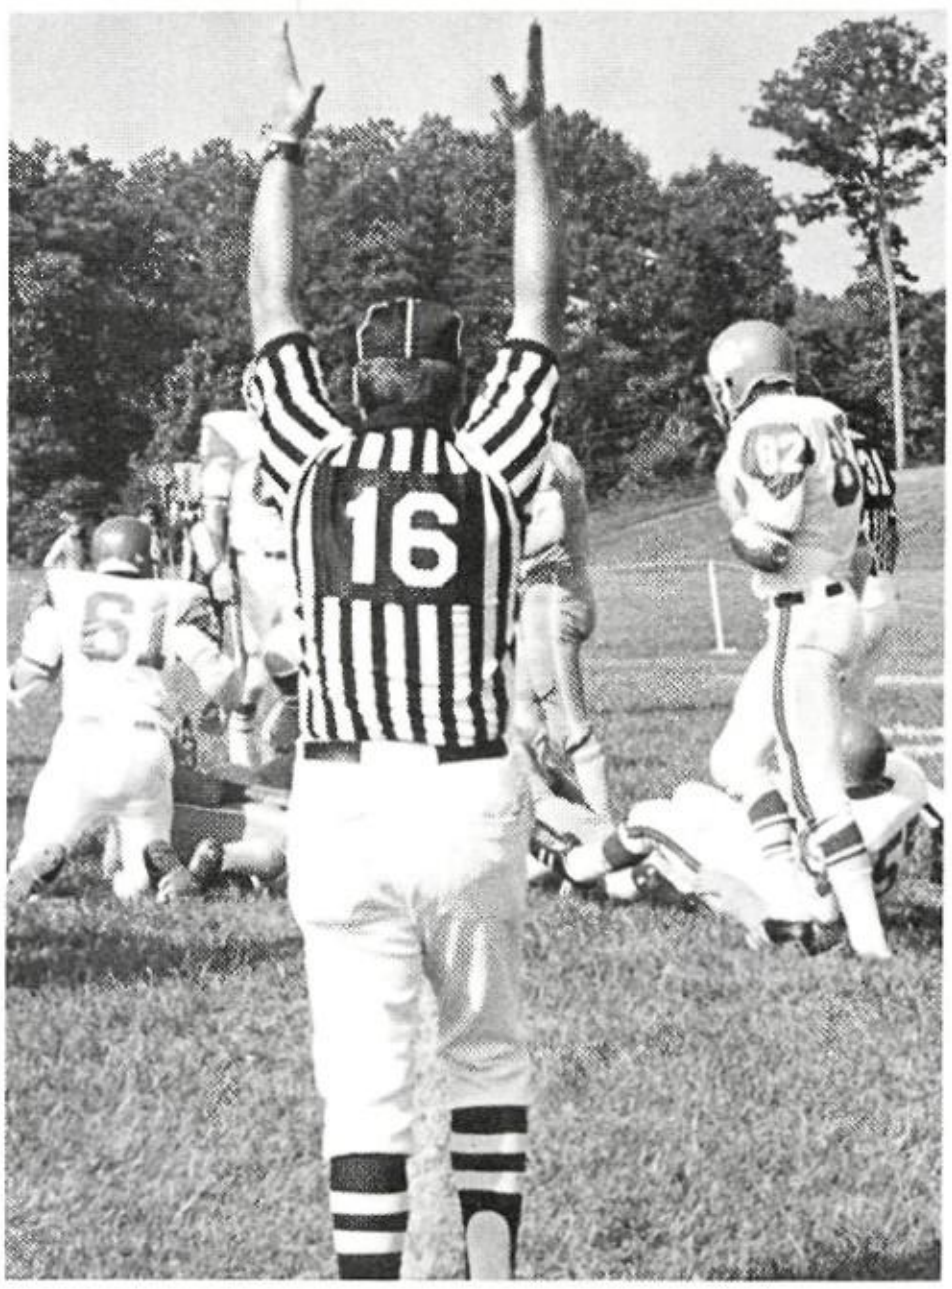
All: No.

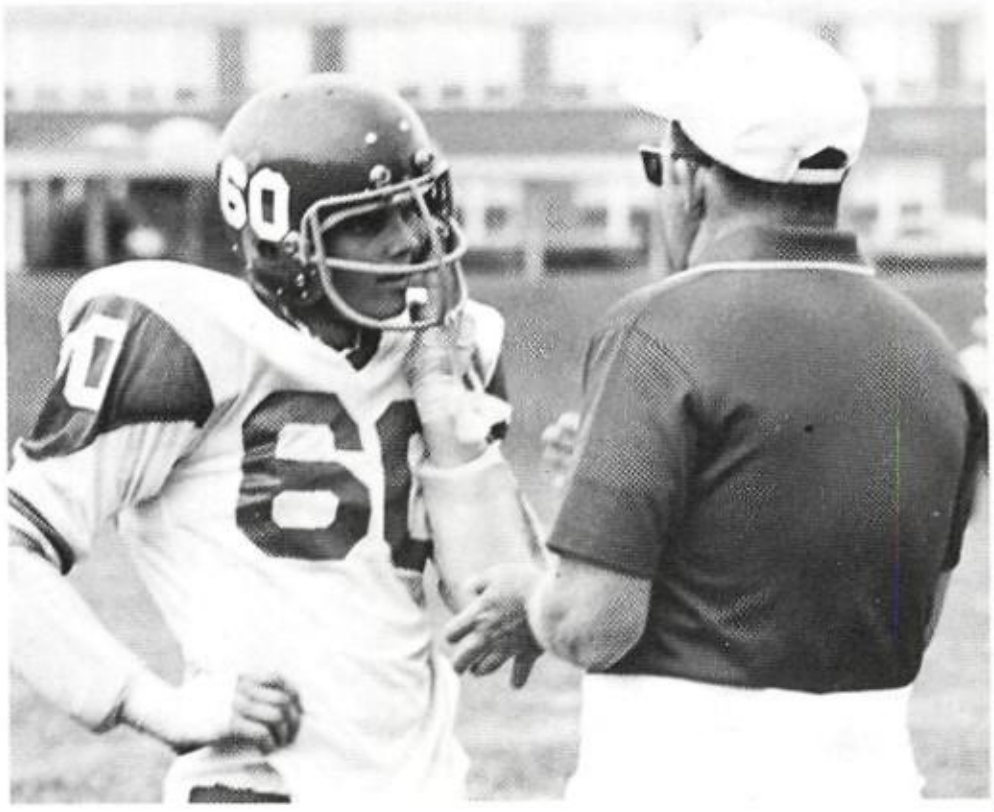
How do you feel when one of your teammates is really critical about something you did?

Steve: We weren't really that critical. It was usually constructive if anybody did it.

Dwight: Coach said at the beginning of the year that if there's any criticizing to be done, he'd do it.







Did it help you when you criticized each other?

Danny: It's better. If you have a grown-up criticizing you, you say that they don't know what they're talking about because they're not in there doing it. But when you have someone that's in there with you, they can help you out. You tend to listen to them a little bit more.

When you watch films of the game, what does it feel like to see yourself in action?

Chris: It doesn't seem like it's you. It doesn't look like you.

Dwight: You can't believe you made those dumb mistakes. Then when you see something you did real good, you say "Coach, turn that back."

Scott: The films really help you out a lot.

Do you guys get nervous before the games?

All: Yea.

Danny: It depends on what team you're playing.

Who was your hardest opponent?

Scott: Brentsville.

Chris, Steve: Bullis.

Chris: With Bullis, we couldn't move on them at all. But with Brentsville, we could move. We just couldn't score.

Being Homecoming, did the Bullis game mean more to you?

All: Yes.

Danny: We were really ready to play that day.

Chris: You think more about winning a Homecoming game than you do any regular game.

What was it like in the locker room after the last game?

Danny: When you went to throw someone in the shower, you couldn't get out yourself. It was mobbed.

Dwight: The Coach came in, and we gave him a bottle of champagne.

Danny: And we didn't even get any.

Dwight: Coach couldn't even talk after that game. He just sat there with his hands in his lap and a big grin on his face.

In your opinion, what is the best thing about football?

Steve: The best thing about it is when you're looking back on it.

Dwight: You played with all your friends. You know you had a good team and you played your best.

Congratulations To The

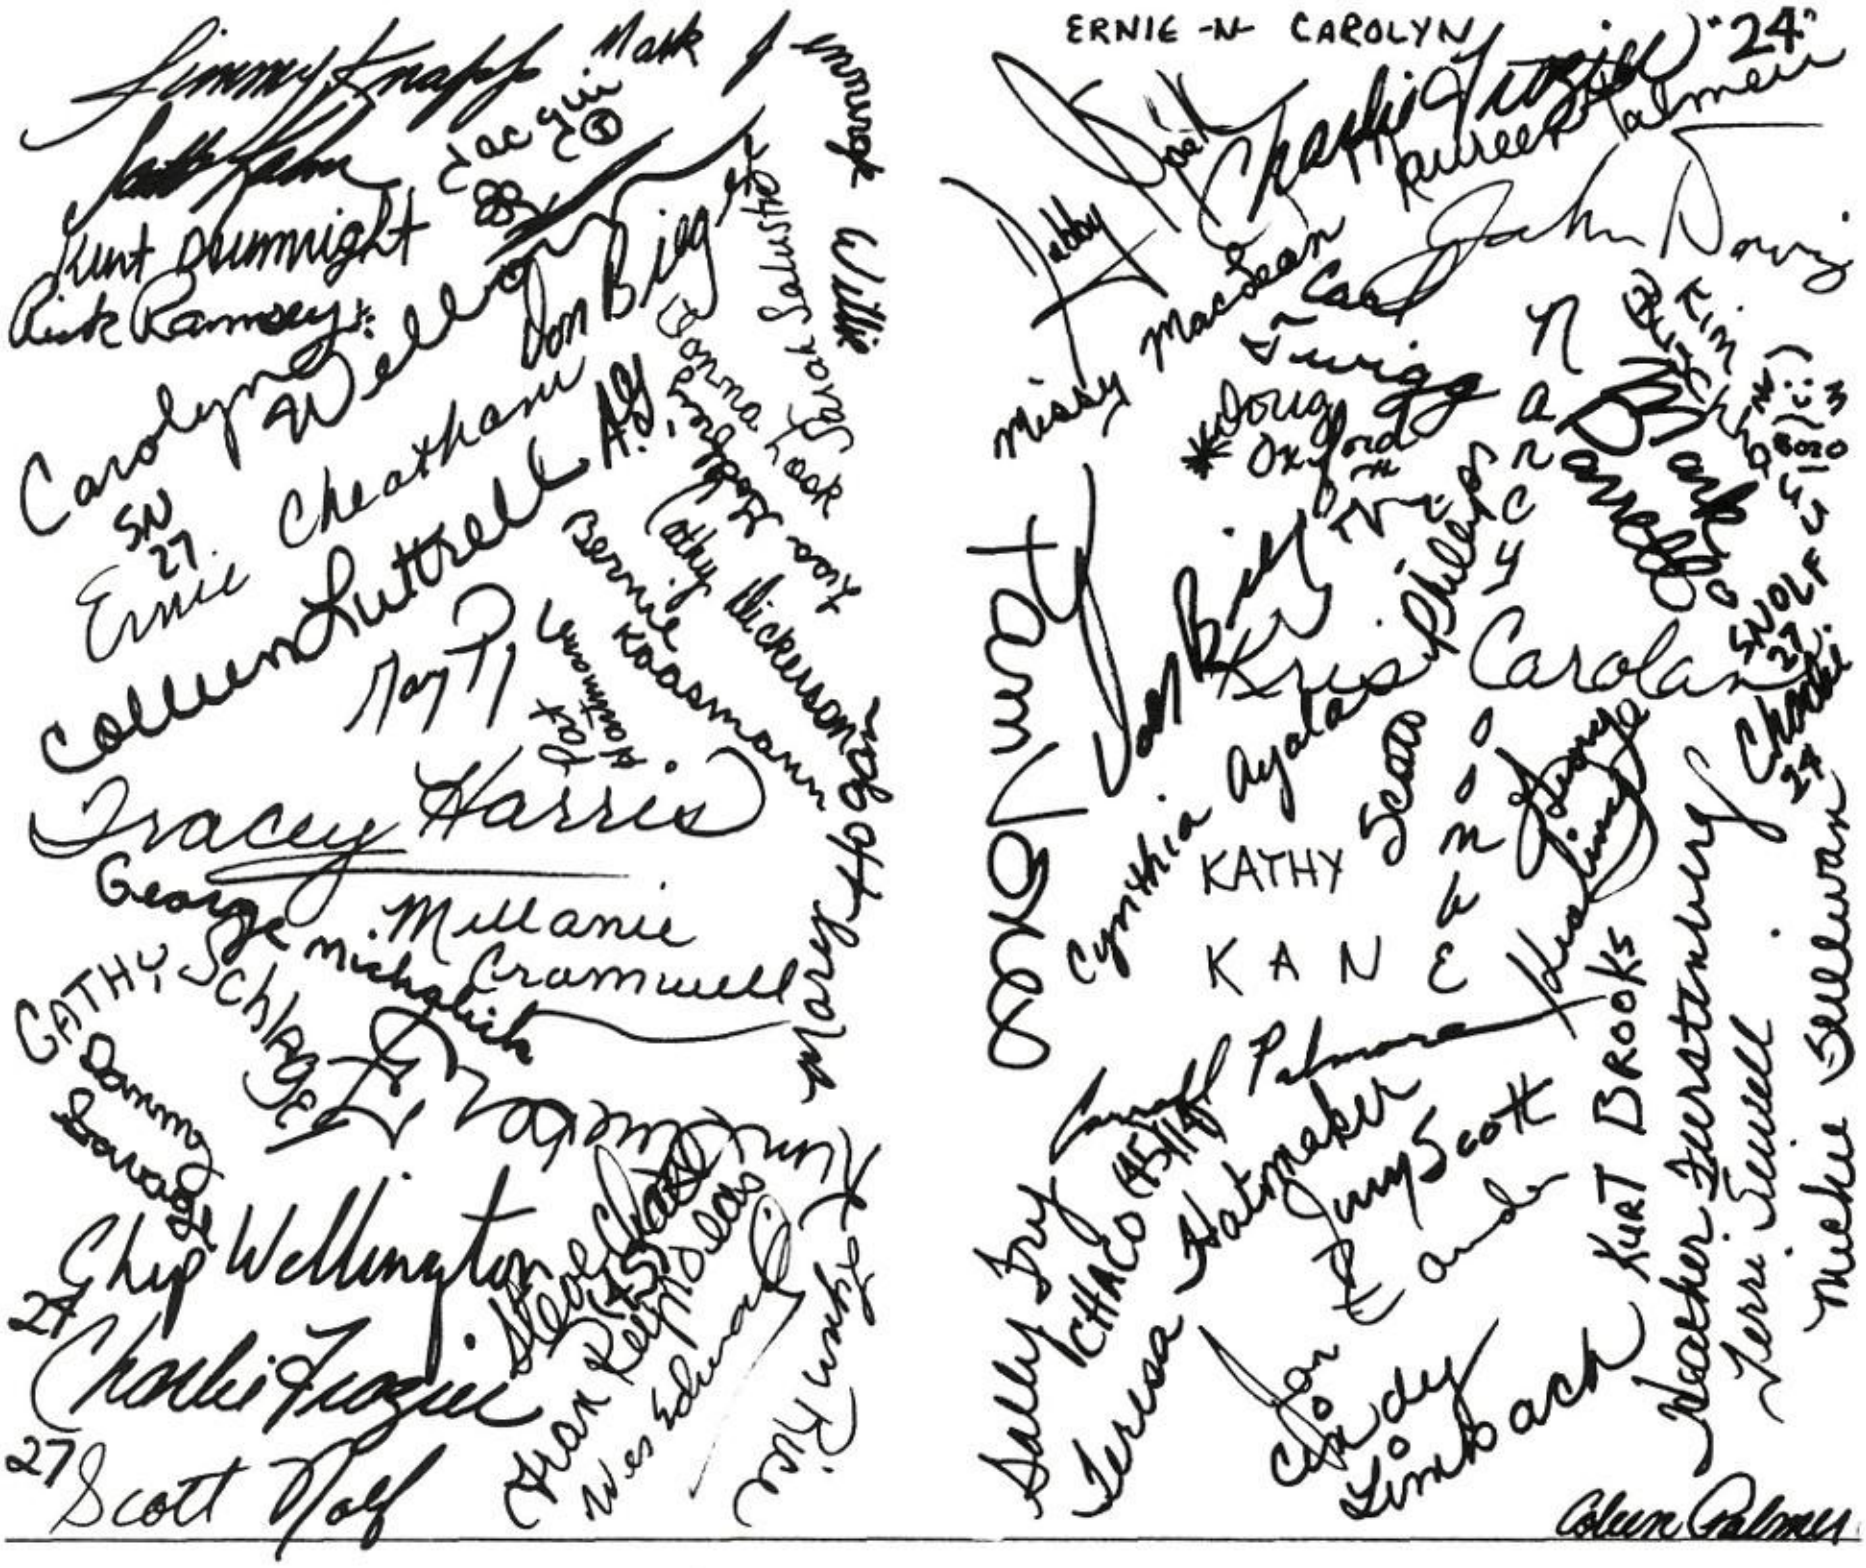
from the

HUT BOARD OF GOVERNORS

We, the Senior Class of 1975, would like to extend our thanks and deepest appreciation to all those persons—parents, sponsors, and faculty—who have made this past year a year always to be remembered for "we may never pass this way again."



SCA works for you

We are unique.
We have shared a rare experience many others cannot even understand. In the beginning many of us were strangers reaching out to each other. The moments we shared brought us a deeper understanding of the world, each other, and ourselves. In the end we must all leave, but we leave with the reassurance that we have created an eternal bond of friendship and with the knowledge that each of us is an unique individual.
